

Daffodil 'Ice Follies'

Narcissus 'Ice Follies' has very large, silvery white flowers with a wide lemon-yellow cup that turns ivory as the flowers mature. This early-bloomer is one of the strongest-growing daffodils ever. It is an excellent naturalizer in a broad range of climates, north and south. Deer and rodents leave daffodils alone because they contain a bitter toxic alkaloid called lycorine that mammals know not to eat. Available from Colorblends.com, a Connecticut-based flower bulb wholesaler that sells direct to landscape professionals and home gardeners coast-to-coast, with a $60 minimum.
