

Daffodil 'Jetfire'

Narcissus 'Jetfire' has reflexed golden yellow flowers with narrow, terracotta-orange cups. It's a prolific, early-spring bloomer that stands just 10 inches tall. Plant it in borders or wild areas. 'Jetfire' is an American-bred daffodil, one of the best small narcissus for the garden and landscape. It has no problems perennializing, even where circumstances are not ideal. Deer and rodents leave daffodils alone because they contain a bitter toxic alkaloid called lycorine. Available from Colorblends.com, a Connecticut-based flower bulb wholesaler that sells direct to landscape professionals and home gardeners coast-to-coast with a $60 minimum.
