

Golden Roads Daffodils, Community Project

A community planting project brightens the spring landscape in a cluster of hamlets one hour north of New York City. Lewisboro Garden Club's planting of 8,100 bulbs at a local high school runs 200 feet along both sides of the road. Says one area resident, "It's like driving through a daffodil alley. Thanks to Golden Roads, every day when I drive to work in spring, I arrive with a smile on my face -- even on Mondays."
