

Mark Konlock, Director of Horticulture, Green Bay Botanical Garden

Mark has developed and designed 11.5 acres of new gardens, redesigned or re-invigorated existing gardens, and expanded the Garden's permanent plant collection from nearly 7,000 plants to well over 70,000. He has helped establish GBBG as a regional center for horticultural trial research. Mark is a contributor to BulbDesignNotes.com, an online design project sponsored by Colorblends.com.
