

'Gertrude Jekyll'

David Austin English Climbing Rose 'Gertrude Jekyll' has a magnificent perfume considered by many to be the quintessential Old Rose fragrance: strong, rich, complex and perfectly balanced. The perfect scrolled buds open to large, flawless, rosette-shaped flowers in bright, glowing pink. One of the first roses to bloom in early summer, it blooms repeatedly till frost. As a climber, it grows 10-feet tall. RHS "Award of Garden Merit." (David Austin 1986, Ausboard).
