

'Tess of the d'Urbervilles'

David Austin English Climbing Rose 'Tess of the d'Urbervilles' has large, bright crimson-red flowers with a deeply cupped shape. As the flowers mature, the petals reflex to lend a more informal air. It is an excellent repeat bloomer, flowering from early summer through frost. The Old Rose fragrance is lovely. This is a fine rose for cutting from the garden for the vase. Each flower has approximately 110 petals. Grows 8 feet tall. (David Austin 1998, Ausmove).
